If you have undergone amputation there may be several emotions you experience such as anxiety, sadness and depression. Amputation can affect every aspect of your life and it takes time to adjust to the changes that will take place.

Your body image may suffer and you may not feel as sexual, but remember sexuality always begins with you. Here are some suggestions:

- Focus only on the sensations of pleasure that you feel at the moment. Do not keep thinking about how you want to perform.
- Alternate between focusing on your partner's pleasure and your own sensations.
- IntimateRider™ can help with balance issues you may experience during sex. It will provide you with an easy, smooth motion. Be open and experiment with different positioning that will work for you and your partner.
